Description

People want to believe that when a loved one dies we remain connected through a universal system of love, knowledge and guidance. Paul Lambillion gives us evidence of such connections in his new book, Angels Looking Through.

The remarkable messages in Angels Looking Through come from the many cases of ordinary people Paul shares with us from his past 30 years of work in which he used his mediumistic abilities to facilitate conversations that bring greater understanding to the unfinished personal business left by death—the child who died, the marriage that didn't fulfill its promise, or the simple bliss to share once more with someone much loved the details of what made their relationship so precious. Such exchanges begin a process that heals, alleviates guilt, or simply brings joy to the heart and confirmation that there is life after death.
